

Autism Awareness Week

don't likes cause an autistic person a lot of anxiety and worry.

don't likes...

being asked to describe, explain or imagine something.
too many choices without any rules for deciding which to choose – what to do at lunchtime.
uncertainty of uncontrolled environments like large groups, crowds - parties.
social situations like group discussions and meeting new people coping...

writing lists

likes...

being asked direct questions with responses on a number scale places like train stations and libraries, where everything is systematic, ordered and correct.

You'll probably have to continue working on this project at home. You may even need to collaborate with other group members.

You should try to explain to someone else what your code is doing (not easy sometimes!).
